JANESPORT A BLAZER IN SAVILLE COUNTY HISTORY

By Miss Rosella Eaton

Janesport Correspondent

In the year 1833 a man by the name of Thomas K. Abberry settled in what is now Janesport township, and was soon followed by many others. Mr. Abberry came here from Hay county and settled on a farm, just the north part of the town of Janesport. Thomas Abberry was of the old backwoods life. He was an all-round kind of man, and could turn his hand to anything. He was a prospector, doctor, farmer, horse trader, horse racer, surveyor, and many other things. His wife was the daughter of an Indian chief and when she died he helped bury her, assisting in the burial service, and placing her in her coffin as was customary with Indian rites.

The township did not settle rapidly. The first settlers located in the east part of the township. They believed the soil poor and that it was an impossibility to turn the sod of the prairies. "Aberry Grove" was the principal settlement in the township and that section for several years. In 1835 a number came from Virginia. Jas. Callison, Richard Hill, John McElroy, and Robert Miller all came from the same state and in the above named year. They were soon afterward followed by Isaac Jordin, James C. Hill, Jonathan Oxford, and James McElroy, and a number of others. It won't long until they had comfortable houses, built out of logs.

The nearest grist mill was at the river at Frenches. The farmers drove dogs and cattle to Frenches where they were slaughtered and butchered and sold for $1.50 per hundred pounds. Sometimes they would have to stay there a week before the animals were killed. They would bring back sugar, coffee, and dry goods. Most of the time the farmers would go to Lexington for supplies which were shipped up the Mississippi from St. Louis.

They did not have hore-hoes to plow the prairie land. It took six yoke of oxen to turn the sod over. They used a 2½-inch plow with an iron shaver and a wooden mould board.

There was plenty of wild meat in the houses the year around. They didn't get much for the stock they could but they didn't need much in those days as they made their clothes from wool and flax. The wool was washed and picked by hand, then taken to the carding machine where it was made into rolls. It was then spun on a hand-wheel into yarn and woven into cloth on a home-made loom. Then it was made into clothing by hand, no sewing machine in those days. A few years later those who could afford it bought calico and made their Sunday dresses. Calico was fifty cent a yard.

From 1835 the prairies and low-lying prairies were found to be as fertile as they were beautiful and soon a large portion of the prairies had been broken up into fields. Once roamed by wild game the section was beginning to fill up with lowing herds of cattle and sheep.

Some people nowadays might think that marriage was a drawback in those pioneer days but they would be quite wrong. The young people of those days believed that success would attend their united efforts and a log cabin, a parlor floor, a couple of pots, a little corn meal and venison and a hen or two were considered a pretty good wedding outfit, with the world before them.

In the year 1840 the first wedding in Janesport township took place. The contracting parties were Richard Hill and Miss Ann Callison. Isaac Jordin, a justice of the peace, said the words that made them man and wife. They went to housekeeping at once and could the duties of every day life they passed their honeymoon. They spent many years of happiness together and lived to a good old age but once in awhile a crop of sorrow would touch their life. Man's life is changeable and if the heart of a Christian never goes happiness itself would be less sought for.

The first white born was James C. Hill, son of Richard and Ann Hill, whose birth was in 1833. The first death was a child of Mr. Aberry, who died in 1833 and was buried in the Hill cemetery. Mr. Hill is no longer with us today. The first regular physician who settled in the township was Dr. GALT. He was born about 1810, then left and went to Memphis, Tenn., where he died a few years later. The first minister was Abram Hill of the Methodist church. He preached in a log cabin built on section 27, just east of Aberry Grove. About that time Rev. Robert Morgan, a Presbyterian minister held services at the home of Robert Miller. The first school was in an old log cabin house on the Aberry farm. Lewis Wiley being the teacher. This was in 1835. He received six dollars per month for six pupils and boarded with various families in the vicinity. The first school house was built on the John Hill farm and Jas. N. McFerrin, who after words went to Callison and became a lawyer and banker, was the first teacher. He had seven or eight pupils and taught for the dollars per pupil for a three-month term.

Mr. Bengal Miller and Pleasant Callison did the first weaving in the township, not only houses for themselves, etc., but also wore carpets.

The Micahs and family room in the houses in those days were all in one. They could do very well if they had a parlor floor, but a log cabin which had two rooms and a loft boasted a parlor. This room had a parlor rug carpet, beautiful in color and with fancy stripes. It was here the young folks did their courting and used split-bottomed chairs instead of sofas. They were well made and could hold two as well as one.

The early members of the Callison family came from Ireland about 1770 and located in Virginia. Jas. Callison was born in Staunton county, Virginia, Aug. 9, 1811. He was the son of James and Anna Callison Callison, natives of Virginia. He was reared and educated in Virginia and when he was 27 years old he left his boyhood home for Missouri. In those days this was a long, long journey. He made the trip with Jas. Ann Callison and family and others who were headed for Missouri. He drove one of the four-horse teams all the way, stopping at Marterville in the lower part of Tennessee. He stayed there that winter and in the spring of 1837 they came to Janesport. He was about 160 acres just west of Janesport. The Mormons had built a double log cabin on this quarter section but they left this part of the country in the fall of 1837. Under pressure, Jas. Ann he had a log cabin on his land.

for long years. He had been hard to say there were lots of work that he wouldn't body else do his horse and dogs. For a long time it was four miles to his nearest home, he never did go back to visit any of his folks or the old home place. His brother, John, came out here in 1850 and stayed with him two years.

In 1852 he was married to Miss Rebecca J. Gillilan daughter of John and Mary Gillilan, March 31, natives of West Virginia. Mr. and Mrs. Gillilan became the parents of ten children.
In 1857 Janesport was located and laid off into lots. In 1860 the population numbered
9. In 1870 the township was organized under the name of Grant and the census of that year showed 700 inhabitants, nine of whom were colored. In 1880 the census gives the township population as 1,337.

The first officers elected in Grant township were elected in 1872 and were as follows:
Robert C. Williams, supervisor; Isadah W. Jones, clerk; Eli Kehler, assessor; William K. P.
Allen, collector; John W. Warren, constable. On the 7th day of November 1872, the name Grant was changed to Janesport making its present name.

There are very few towns which have a prettier location than the town of Janesport. On July 25, 1871, the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad reached Janesport. The population at that time was about 150. persons. Practically the whole town and surrounding territory turned out to celebrate the coming of the railroad.

On August 6, 1872, an act of incorporation was passed by the county court and from that time on it has been the City of Janesport. The court appointed Franklin Callison, H. O. Greeno, Ward Thomas, A. Beretas, and I. W. Jones as a board of trustees for the town, to hold their offices until their successors should be elected and qualified.

Richard Hill, The Pioneer

Richard Hill, a Revolutionary soldier and Indian fighter, it is believed, came to this section of Pocahontas County from North Carolina soon after the armies of the Revolution were disbanded. He married Miss Nancy McNoel, daughter of John McNoel, a pioneer of the Hillsboro settlement. After their marriage they settled west of Hillsboro on Hill's Creek, and today rough, native-carved stones mark their resting places on a hill overlooking Hill's Creek. Hill's Creek and the Hill Cemetery can be seen from an overlook in the Park, where each year the Richard Hill Family Reunion is held.

The first Reunion and the organization of the group was held in 1950. Droop Mt. State Park was selected as a permanent meeting place for the Reunion. Richard Hill was born in Pocahontas county, W. Virginia, in 1814, and came to Daviess county in 1835 locating on a farm 2½ miles west of Jamesport. Richard Hill and Anna Callinan, of Greenbrier county, W. Va., were the first couple married in Jamesport township. They were the parents of five children, the oldest, James C. Hill, being the first boy born in Jamesport township. Mrs. Hill died in 1853 and Richard Hill was married again to Miss Agnes Miller, of Jamesport, three children being born to this union.

THE RICHARD WILL CEMETERY

Compiled by

March 1938

THE RICHARD HILL CEMETERY :

The Hill Cemetery is located on the brow of a ridge between the Hills Creek Valley and the Bruffey's Creek Valley. The land is now (1988) owned by Leroy Rose, and before his ownership, it was known as the Ryder Place. The cemetery is about 200 yards east of the original home site of Richard Hill. Most of the hand-made grave markers are sandstone from the hillsides west of the Emmanuel Church along the Bruffey's Creek. John Bruffey was the stone carver who did most of the work. He must have prepared several stones in advance as there are stones in the cemetery with decorative carvings but no names or dates on them. He died in 1874.

A stone indicates that Cornelius OHOVER was the first person buried there. Nothing is remembered about him other than he was an Irishman, and no dates appear on the stone. The oldest dated stone appears to be for Jeese Morrison died 1805, the son of James Morrison and Elizabeth Callison.

Richard Hill was first known to be in what is now Pocahontas County in 1786. The Greenbrier County Personal Property Tax 1787 List "5" indicates that he owned two horses. He was married by that time and probably owned land. He purchased land from William & Sarah Renick in 1792 (240 acres) and 1799 (350 acres).

Ms. Mary Lou Dilley, President
The Pocahontas County Historical Society

Dear Ms. Dilley:

It is with great pleasure that Erika and I will renew our membership in the PCHS for the coming year. Regrettably, even though we come to Watoga State Park three times a year now, we never seem to be there when the Society has its meetings. If at all possible, we do participate in the events, culturally, historically, and otherwise that are being offered, such as the performances of the Greenderle Valley Theatre, the Trillium Dance Company, the CCC meetings, etc. We just spent two glorious weeks at the beginning of June at the Park, and will return for the first two weeks in November and for two weeks around Presidents' Day in February. Even though, neither of us was born in West Virginia, nor in the United States, as a matter of fact (we both came from Germany during the early 1950's), we are greatly interested in the Mountain State, its history, customs, music and literature, etc. The fact that we spend all six weeks of our annual vacation time at Watoga, and the fact that Erika sports a 'Watoga' license plate on her car should be an indication of our love for Pocahontas County. (Every time we come to visit and driving up Route 92 or north on 192 past Rendek, whenever we pass the County signs, one of us is likely to remark that we are 'back home' again).

I've read your May Newsletter with great interest, especially the report by Mrs. Kelley on 'Graves on Seecers State Forest Land', where she mentions under 'Lockridge Cemetery' a couple, Joseph F. and Rebecca Lockridge SEEBERT. I was asked a few weeks ago (during our February stay) about the history of Seebert. Obviously, I knew very little about the origin of the village, except that I did remember that somebody, and, for the life of me I cannot remember who it was, mentioned to me that the original settlers of Seebert were Germans under a German officer who had served in the Indian Wars under the British. Now, this is not a figure of my mind - where would I get this from, if someone had not told me. I have since then done a little bit of research on my own, but I would like to hear from an expert about what is really known.

I know that Seebert was first settled by a Frederick Seybert and a Jacob Sybert. Now, Jacob is not an English name - it is James. 'Jacob' is just the Anglicized form of the German name 'Jakob' and the difference between 'Seebert', 'Seybert', 'Sedert', 'Sybert' and other variations is often just regional or a matter of dialect, or how it was understood by a scribe or clerk. Now, the name Seebert contains two good German parts: See - like and Ber (Berthold) the name of a man. So, 'Seebert' is the place at a lake where a Ber(hold) had his house, which could have been anywhere where German was spoken, but on a regional level, it was a very distinct place. Now, I do not claim that this is the derivation of the name 'Seebert' but it is one possibility.

Now, the German immigration, into what would become West Virginia, took place in the northeast of the state, at Shepherdstown (New Mecklenburg) and in Pendleton County a. Jacob Seybert defended a fort against the Shawnee leader Keltuck (see attached from the 'Early History of Pendleton County'. Fort Seybert is still a community there.

But it is interesting that some branches of the Seebert/Seybert/Sybert family retained the spelling 'SEEbert' (see the gravestone at Lockridge Cemetery, and the marriage certificate of a Levi SEEbert, of Poconos County, who wed Electa Gillian on Jan 13, 1839).

Enough of the Seebert question. I have brought it up also for another reason: In your Newsletter you asked how we could recruit new members for the Society. I am sure you have already thought of this, but why not, in collaboration with the librarians in PC and the Middle- and High Schools stimulate the interest of young people by teaching local history, family history, and devote some meetings of the Society to questions like the one that I have raised. We must remember that with every person of older generations that passes away, we are deprived of another source of oral history. I wish, I could resurrect my mother, or even better, an old great-aunt twice removed who could make sense out of all the branches of the family tree to which we were 'friends to'. To be successful, such a program will require much effort and time, but how are we going to stimulate interest otherwise. If I can help, I will gladly do so. My e-mail address is:

Early History of Pendleton County

Pendleton County was created by an act of the Virginia General Assembly on December 4, 1787 from parts of Augusta, Harding and Rockingham counties (Virginia). It was named in honor of Edmund Pendleton (1721-1803).

Edmund Pendleton was born in Caroline County, Virginia on September 9, 1721. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1744. In 1751, he served as a justice of the peace and was a member of the Virginia General Assembly from 1752 to 1774. He was President of the Virginia Convention of 1775 and 1776 (that ratified the U.S. Constitution), represented Virginia in the Continental Congress (1774-1775), and served as the Governor of Virginia (1774-1776). He later served as the President of the Virginia Court of Appeals. Judge Pendleton died on October 23, 1803.

In 1790, when the first national census was taken, Pendleton County had the seventh largest population (2,452) of the nine counties that were then in existence and fell within the current boundaries of West Virginia. Berkeley County had the largest population (19,713), Randolph County had the smallest population (951), and there were a total of 55,873 people living within the present state's boundaries at that time.

John Van Meter, a Dutch trader from New Jersey was probably the first European to set foot in the county. He accompanied a band of Delaware Indians on a raid against the Catawba Indians in 1732. The Delaware Indians lost the battle, but Van Meter later told his sons, John and Isaac, about the fine lands along the South Branch River and his sons later purchased a warrant for 40,000 acres in the area.

In 1735, four squatters named Coborn, Howard, Walker and Rutledge, moved into the South Branch River area, near the current county's boundary. John and Isaac Van Meter (killed by Indians in 1757) and Peter Casey arrived in the early 1740s, as did two other men named Pascale and Foreman. When George Washington passed through the area in 1748, he noted that there were about 200 people living in the area. Most of these settlers were squatters living just outside of or on the present county's boundaries. At that time, Robert Green, of Culpeper, along with James Wood and William Russell, had purchased rights to almost all of the present county. It is believed that in 1755 a man named Burner was the first European to build a cabin within the future site of Pendleton County.

The first legitimate, title bearing settlers in the county were six families who bought title to 1,860 acres for 61 pounds and 6 shillings ($230.33) from Robert Green in 1747. They were the families of Roger Dryer, his son William and his son-in-law, Matthew Patton; John Patton, Jr.; John Smith; and William Stephenson. There are no records to indicate if they relocated that year or the next, but it is assumed that they moved to the county in 1747.

Seybert's Fort, named for Captain Jacob Seybert of Pendleton County, was one of the earliest structures in the county. It was built by settlers about 12 miles west of Franklin in 1756 as a place of refuge during Indian uprisings. On April 28, 1758, with about 30 settlers, mostly women and children, gathered inside, the Fort was attacked by a band of about 40 Shawnee Indians led by Chief Killbuck. The Fort was surrounded by the Indians and after two days siege, Captain Seybert agreed to surrender the Fort to the Indians in exchange for their safe passage out of the area. Unfortunately, when the — were opened, the settlers were attacked and all of them were taken captive except for a man named Robinson who escaped. After setting the Fort on fire, the Indians took their captives about a quarter of a mile to the east and on a hillside separated them into two rows and seated them on logs. The captives in one row were spared and the captives in the other, including Captain Seybert, were tomahawked to death. The 11 remaining captives were taken to the Shawnee Indian village at Chillicothe, Ohio. Five of the captives, including Captain Seybert's son, Nicholas, later escaped to tell the tale of their misadventures.

The county seat, Franklin, was settled by Francis (Frank) Ewick and was originally named Frankford in his honor. The town was chartered by the Virginia General Assembly on December 19, 1794. The town's name was later changed to Franklin because there was another Frankford in the state.
